Southern Paving bid low

Beach road construction to get underway in Sept.

A variance of $187,080.44 between low and high bids on rebuilding hurricane mangled Beach Blvd. came to light as estimates from nine contracting firms were read before the board of supervisors Wednesday morning.

Southern Paving Co. was apparently successful with their $377,417.41 total bid.

Yates and Patterson, next with $409,414.90, and Necaise Construction offered to do the job for $584,447.85.

Southern Paving, with John Thornton as company head has fulfilled contracts in Gulfport, Biloxi and at Mississippi Test Facility with Hyde Construction Company, sub-contracting.

Preliminary survey work has been completed under supervision of Arthur Rogers, assistant county engineer, and the long awaited getting down to the business of completing the job should begin as soon as figures are tabulated and approved by the state bureau of public roads and state aid road commissions.

Supervisors called a recessed meeting Sept. 3, for final action of the bid.

Woods, children lose all as fire guts home

Donations of food, clothing, household items and appliances are desperately needed by a Waveland family who lost everything they own when their home burned to the ground shortly after midnight Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woods and their eight children were away from home at the time of the blaze, which was out of control when Waveland Volunteer fire fighters arrived about 1 a.m. A neighbor returning from his night shift job saw the flames and called the fire

Objectors, object to news article

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

This Committee which successfully spearheaded the defeat of the validation of the $780,000 City of Bay St. Louis Bond Issue, felt compelled to write you regarding the article that appeared in your August 18, 1968 edition relative to this matter.

We wanted to point out to the readers of your newspaper how you misrepresented the actual facts of this case. The truth is that the Objectors were not "censured" nor were their wrists "slapped", but the Judge recommended that the parties work together on a program; however, the City proceeded with the same program before the ink was dry on the Decree voiding the proceedings.

The article indicated that the Judge stated that political conditions should not enter into the street program, but the Judge was only referring to the Court proceedings, to which we heartily agree. The Judge also favored a street improvement program, but not necessarily this one as your article indicated to which the Committee heartily agrees.

The errors committed were not merely "technical" and these were the fault of the City and not the Objectors. Incidentally the Objectors who signed the Court proceedings were 26, not 22, and they in effect represented approximately 1,000 protestors. The picture also indicated that the Attorneys were being "gilded" by the Court when, in fact, the Court was only advising them when to present the Decree denying validation for his signature.

It appears that you have flagrantly violated your journalist's creed that appeared on page 4 of the same edition. It states among other things as follows: "I believe that clear thinking and clear statement, accuracy, and fairness are fundamental to good journalism."

After publication of the Article, many people asked us what was the outcome of this case. We can understand why they were confused. . . Can you?

Supervisors advertise

County, school millage left up to voters

Notice of special election was authorized to be published this week by the board of supervisors, after a Monday noon joint session with the county school board. Notice of intention to retain present 7 mills for general county purposes was also approved by the supervisors Tuesday afternoon, as was a continuation of a 21 mill levy to assist Pearl River Junior College.

During the two-board meet,

Walter James Phillips, school board attorney, also a state legislator, explained carefully provisions of the teachers minimum pay raise, stressing that the state provides only a 4 mill increase and allows counties to decide by vote whether or not to utilize the additional 3 mill levy.

In the 72 teacher county system only 47 unit teachers are included in the 4 mill covered $1,000 pay raise, leaving 25, listed non-unit, and clerical, transportation and maintenance personnel just where they were before the legislation.

Addition of the state programmed $300 incentive supplement for teacher raises was approved. These combined with

City sets protest deadline

Mayor John Scaife said today that the City of Bay St. Louis is requesting all property owners wishing to file protests against the paving projects to do so early and not wait until 10 a.m. Friday, Aug. 30 - deadline for filing.

Mayor Scaife added that the City did not want there to be any misunderstanding concerning the deadline on Friday.

"The deadline for protesting has been set for 10 a.m., Friday, Aug. 30, which gives every one ample time to file a protest. Therefore, at 10 a.m. on that date no additional protests will be accepted. Those wishing to protest should understand that they do not have to protest in person. They can file by letter, in person or through attorney," Mayor Scaife said.

OL. 77, NO. 34

OH HAPPY DAY! This, the reaction of property owners watching Hyde Construction workers set forms for curbing, before reassessing background of mammoth highway paving machines. Actual final south lane paving is slated to begin by this weekend.

Relief in sight for U.S. 90, too

On or before Oct. 1, is the "hopefully" set for completion of last 25 feet of paving of new south lanes on U.S. 90, connecting east and west from Bay St. Louis to Rock Creek, just past Waveland Ave.

Hyde Construction Company official, "Pops" Gonzales insisted the word "hopefully", explaining that paving machinery, used on other jobs while a 10 ft strip of pavement was let as a sub-contract to Mestayer Concrete, had been returned to job and should be in order for a test run by Thursday or Friday. The batching plant has been re-erected 603, and the carloads of steel, transferred from L&N sidings to more convenient storage near Wheel Inn.

Gonzales explained the first ten feet, now completed for the distance between the Bay and Waveland, were laid first to enable three separate crews to finish slabs integrated driveways, drainage facilities, street turn-outs and curbing.

If all goes well during the planned 21 working day schedule, meaning at least average to fair weather, and no major machinery breakdowns, a definite date for opening the lanes may not be too far off.

That announcement will come after post-paving projects such as joint sealing, traffic lane painting, sign erection and inside curbing finishing are accomplished.

Wet weather, lack of funds hinder mosquito fighters

In a plea for an additional .2 mill to aid in the endless battle against mosquitoes, Chris Elmore of the Gulf Coast Mosquito Control Commission, told the board of supervisors Monday that loss of the helicopter and shortage of funds has handicapped his agency.

Describing this as the worst year yet in the five since activation of the commission, Mayor Garfield Ladner announced today the appointment of John F. Auderer as chairman of Waveland's Buy Mississippi Products Campaign.

John Auderer will head a seven-member Buy Mississippi Products Campaign Committee, members include:

Dr. Otto J. Mollere, Mrs. Terence Peeney, Milton C. Bernard, Mrs. Lucien Cox, Jr., Mr. Gaston T. Moreau and Haskell L. Doyle.

Calling this campaign "an integral part of our effort to raise the economic opportunity of the people of Mississippi," Governor Williams said, "I am convinced that this program has contributed greatly to the present prosperity of our state and we can again add to this tremendous progress."

Mayor Garfield Ladner pointed out that the committee will make every effort to acquaint the people of Waveland with the more than 2800 brand name products manufactured and produced in Mississippi and especially those products manufactured here in Waveland. Details of the intensive advertising and promotion campaign will be made after approval of the committee.

Elmore attributed natural fluctuation in mosquito population as a main cause.

Heavy precipitation following periods of drought seems to be contributing factor, as does wind direction. In fact there may be some truth to the Mississippians' practice of pinning blame upon tourist insects entering from Louisiana. In the Pearl River area, especially hard hit at this time, many mosquitoes are borne in on a westerly wind from salt marshes across the state line.

Elmore and his workers are concentrating on marshy and swampy areas for pelleting and spraying from the airplane, and utilizing fogging in heavily populated areas.

The heaviest concentration of wigglers has been found in mud and water around Sand Bayou, Point Clear, Grand Plains and north of Anseley. Success in control in these spots ranges from 80 to 90 percent, depending upon wind speed and direction. As several thousand baby wigglers may be found in one square foot of marsh, the 10 to 20 percent escaping are bound to create a pretty big itch for the populace.

Elmore said the NASA donated dragline should be of assistance in digging drainage ditches, and heavier fogging is planned when and where requested. There is a straight line to his office from Bay St. Louis, and persons calling 467-5042 are asked to give only names and addresses, as mosquito fighters are doing their share of scratching too, and are well aware to all symptoms!

MORE SPACE FOR AIRPORT

In a telegram received yesterday U.S. Senator John Stennis advised the Echo that NASA has approved conveyance of about 55 acres on the eastern side of the test facility buffer zone without charge to Hancock County to be used as a portion of the airport runway complex. Conveyance will be made after preparation of documents by Army engineers and approval of the General.

BREEDING SPOT checked by Mosquito Control sampler may produce as many as several thousand embryonic mosquitoes, called wigglers, per square foot.

OUT OF THE frying pan into the fire, so to speak, was driver of this car, Arthur Thomas, 25, of New Orleans. Thomas' smiling companions appear jubilant over the fact that they're alive after collision with L&N freight car Saturday afternoon.

Escapes injury in train mishap, killed later on breaking charge

Arthur Thomas, 25-year-old New Orleans Negro was driver of the old model automobile which collided with an L&N freight train between Booklet and Citizen Street crossings before 7 p.m. Saturday. Pictured above told the police they were passengers, did not give names to investigating officers Eric Nease and Douglas Williams. Thomas told the patrol that he thought he was on the street and did not know the car was there until the collision occurred. The train allowed Thomas to escape injury after trying to down the car for over 45 minutes. Early Monday morning Thomas again made the news. Ptn. James Tate was called to the four-time-robbled L&N General Food Store and discovered od entry had been gained by breaking a large plate glass window.

Tate summoned Buck Ladner and the newly acquired bloodhound, Track. Thomas was located soon after in a Main St. residence, his foot apparently still bleeding from a cut from the plate glass window. He was then booked in Hancock County jail.

His hearing is set for Friday night in Justice of the Peace Court of Nellus Rhodes.

Expired license, complaints cause Showboat closing

Frequent complaints of water pollution from the Showboat restaurant and lounge docked on a canal near Jordan River, led to its closing Tuesday night.

Sheriff Fred Curt and deputies Bill Carbonette and J. Barnes charged Jack C. Rester, operator of the converted boat owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart, with operating a lounge and selling beer without a license.

Hearing will be at 7 p.m. Friday before Justice of the Peace Nellus Rhodes.

Little Helen Frances Naman

Little Helen Frances Naman, 4, entered her bride doll in the Doll Show at Lyons Park recently and it was judged winner in its category and later named champion in the show. The doll, however, is unique more for its background and costume origin. When Reverend Mother Frances celebrated her 50th jubilee as a Discalced Carmelite nun two years ago, she at the Monastery dressed a doll in a wedding gown identical in design to that worn by her when she became a "bride of Christ" in 1906. The authenticity of the costume was augmented by the use of material taken from the original gown. After the jubilee, the nun gave the doll to Helen Frances who was named for the religious. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Louis Naman of East Mobile, Granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Blaize of Bay St. Louis.

Predicting fishing is a tough one to weather conditions the tide, which controls fishing. Fresh water fish better when the tide is in, while salt water fish better on rising tides. Soft are caught when the tide is out. Flounders are struck on tides. Contrary to belief, soft crabs and flounders are caught as late as the end of the month.

Arch and black bass fishing is good for the next two months. Surface baits are in the fall months and the winter, they are best by trolling, fly fishing and casting with underwater as the water gets colder, fish are caught the year in this part of the country. you get the urge to go, go, the fish will do their job. To our way of thinking, the color of the bait does not matter. It's the action that counts.

Matheny of Merchants showed us a nice catch of crabs and perch caught in River. Dick is a good fly fisherman and usually gets his Wonder what has happened to Dr. Emilio Bertucci lately? Don't hear of him fishing. Must be too busy operating a knife instead of a fishing rod, eh, Doc?

Larry Mauffray and family have been here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aiden Mauffray. He probably has been fishing with his Dad. Larry lives in Muncie, Indiana. He said it was swell to see all his friends.

Don't hear of anyone catching frogs. Our streams are still full of them. They are there for the catching. Is there any better delicacy than frog legs?

The water in most all streams is beautiful right now. A lot of fresh water fish are being caught in Pearl River proper, from Pearl River and down. Fly fishing and casting is at its best. If you don't know how to fly fish or cast they can be caught with live shrimp or worms, etc., by still fishing.

was a pleasure to see Guidroz mingling with old friends over the weekend. A few back Moss did a lot of with the old timers. He about 12 years in the Bay. Dewey is one of the visitors with the construction building the bridge on Jordan River at Hickory on 1-10. Ken and Lucille fish and crabs. We mean soft and hard crabs, me to our section, folks. Meyers says he has catching all kinds of fish in canals near Tennessee works at Ansley. Sam is an fisherman and knows stuff when it comes to fishing them.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK

William Johnson, better known as "Bill", is a real sportsman. He loves all kinds of sports, is a golfer and at present has charge of recreation in Bay St. Louis. Bill is doing a swell job with our local youth. He has friends galore.

PLAY-OFF WINNERS - George (Pops) Souzeneau, right, wearing glasses, sponsor of Chateau Seu Softball team, perennial threat in Bay Softball League, and this year's play-off champs, poses with team and friends at celebration in Chateau Seu Lounge Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Benigno, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Messina, and Chas. and Rosalie Prest do a lot of fishing at Treasure Island. They catch speckles and bull croakers. Fishing on weekends is their favorite pastime.

W. R. Springer Merchants Bank V.P. is another of our local fishermen. He prefers fly fishing to any other.

Ben A. Mutter and Bob Von Ehren are ardent fishermen. Bob loves catching hard crabs and flounders, but we think Ben prefers fishing. Both are against Pogy boats, as they claim they hurt fishing and crabbing. They might have some thing there.

Salt water fishing is not at its best just now, but is improving. A few speckles and other fish are being caught off the highway bridge and seawall. Dead bait will catch speckles, red fish, channel mullets, sheephead, etc. Fishing on the bottom is best. Some hard crabs are being caught on high tide along the seawall.

J.C. Baxter, manager of the yacht club is an expert on fishing. He says he is too busy to go

Two more stills hit in Hancock County

The running battle between Federal Agents and Hancock County moonshiners continued last week with agents scoring two raids, knocking off one still and arresting two persons.

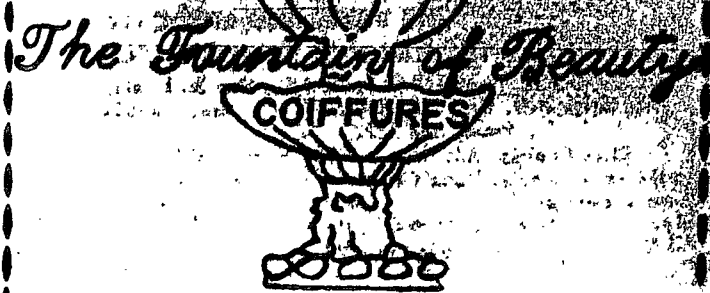

Armed with search warrants, Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division agents entered the residences of Maurice Emile Summers, 38, and Mrs. Mae Garriga Dedeaux, 67, both located in rural areas of the county.

In the Summers' residence, a 55-gallon drum pot still and 27 gallons of moonshine were found while at Mrs. Dedeaux' house, three and one-half gallons of moonshine in unstamped containers were discovered.

Preliminary hearings were set for this week at Biloxi.

As others see it

From the Village, Greenwich Village, N.Y.

Hidden away in the interstices of tales of death and cruelty I find on rare occasions tiny items of news that symbolize the greatness and goodness of our beloved Republic. I beg my readers to cull and mail to me any such delectable items that they may come across. I labor under no impression that this one column can influence in the slightest the great networks or even the beloved New York Times. That great recorder of our current history could if it wished—alone and singlehanded—change the distortion of all reporting—now generically used to accept the grim and the gory instead of the Noble and the Heartwarming.

Here are a few items which I wish I had the resources to follow up, and then the space to report on in full.

1. Some manufacturers of toy guns for children have started to diversify their line of output in the direction of playtoys less likely to act as catalysts of violence. I suggest that any reporter sent out by any editor would get a great lead story of the decline of sales of toy guns for our kiddies. I have a hunch that such a verified and well-written story might conceivably meet with favor among readers even of the Post, our main purveyor of violence.

2. Our vast non-profit-making Foundations have suffered for years because they are the most sacred cows of the mass media. This arises not at all from the falsely presumed influence of advertising pressures. Unhappily Foundations are never subject to objective criticism or appraisal. At best, they get a few grumbles from the applicants they rejected. Congressman Wright Patman did produce some glaring evidence of tax avoidance and even anti-social financial juggling by some of the richest of our Foundations. But we must expect the self-perpetuating trustees even of the King of Foundations—Ford—to drift toward inefficiency, waste and mediocrity, as must be the pattern in all men who are beyond the fields of sober objective review or criticism.

And now I learn that at least one Foundation will appoint a temporary—not to be reappointed—Ombudsman to review all its benefactions of the past 5 years. This delights me because for years I have urged several Foundation Czars to get some outsider to look at all applications—say of 1963—and report on whether the beneficiaries wasted the money or whether wiser selections for gratitude could have been made.

As far as I can discover, this is the first attempt at what might be an objective, even though wisely non-public, report on those who bend our society by disposal of millions of dollars. Has a reader of this column any good news about any Foundation in this direction of techniques of self-discipline?

3. In this same area of criticism as a corrective I was overjoyed when I happened to catch on TV the ABC sports expert at the moment when he differed publicly with the sports editor of the New York Times. The difference arose from the failure of football players to go for training. Was it a strike or not? Did the concept of a strike reduce the "glamor" of athletes?

I was not concerned with the merits of the issue but could scarcely believe that one medium would criticize another. This was a mighty story. Maybe, if known and approved by our public, Paley's editorials may some day criticize Sarnoff or vice versa. Without cross-criticism the media must further disintegrate. This brief bit of public disagreement with good will should not go by unnoticed.

4. Best news of all from my point of view! One radio station has promised me to report the result in court—including charges, court findings and penalty—about the man arrested as a result of the fray on the Hudson River cruise boat. This will be a real breakthrough since all media report arrests but decline to report the results of the judicial proceedings except on rare occasions, such as charges against men like Rap Brown—who are often creatures of the mass media.

5. I also have some reason to believe that one TV network is actually exploring the possibility of a daily program to be entitled "Good News."

Has any reader any program by which thousands of stories of Good News could possibly be seduced or cajoled into any mass media? Our Republic is great and good and of course can and will always improve—but we can only decline if Goodness is taboo and Violence is held up for esteem.

WASHINGTON ARTILLERY veterans and families stand beneath flags at their 130th anniversary reunion held Sunday at the Beach Blvd. home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Viguerie.

The unit, activated Sept. 7, 1938, has been cited in every conflict since the War Between the States and holds among other honors, the French Croix de Guerre.

To bomb or not to bomb???

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - For weeks now President Johnson has been wavering over whether to halt all bombing of North Vietnam. The argument and division within the administration has grown with the failure of the Paris truce talks to make any progress. And it has been sharply intensified by Vice President Humphrey's conversion to the belief we will not get a truce unless we cease bombing as Hanoi has demanded.

The President's military advisers are as adamant as ever against any further unilateral concessions by the U.S. They say that our reduced bombing so far has not only brought no reciprocal action from Hanoi, but has been utilized to vastly increase the flow of men and supplies southward, and that as a result, we face the probability of heavy fighting ahead and high American casualties.

At times the President has leaned toward taking Hanoi's word that a total bombing halt would be followed by meaningful progress toward peace. But at the same time he has become so discouraged and so pessimistic from the failure of all his efforts to obtain even the smallest concessions from North Vietnam that he tends to side with the hardliners.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford's statement last week that all we really want from Hanoi in return for halting the bombing is only an "assurance" that U.S. troops would not be placed in "greater jeopardy" by that action is evidence that the President may again be leaning toward the peace side. This column is convinced that President Johnson wants peace deeply and sincerely, not merely because the war has proved the one great black mark on his record, but because it has so damaged his efforts to build better relations with the Soviet Union, has so lowered U.S. prestige around the world, has so divided the American public, and has so crippled vital programs at home.

There are other considerations which make the current White House debate critical: unless he changes his mind and accepts renomination for another term, the President has only a few months to bring the war to an end; also, if he fails to try halting the bombing completely, it may guarantee Richard Nixon's election in November. Conversely, by giving in to Hanoi's demand, and thereby showing that the Democratic administration is willing to make any reasonable gesture to get peace, LBJ would greatly enhance Hubert Humphrey's chances of winning.

In addition, and perhaps most important of all, the President still believes better U.S.-Soviet relations are the most important goal of his or any American administration, and the sour reaction of the communist world to Richard Nixon's nomination indicates little hope that Nixon as President could achieve them.

LBJ for Nixon

Some of Vice President Humphrey's supporters around the White House say that LBJ's quick invitation to Nixon to visit him at the ranch in Texas the day after the Republican convention makes it look almost as if the President favors Nixon for President. They argue he at least could have waited a few days before giving such glib-edged treatment to so severe a critic of his administration, when he hasn't done nearly as much for his own Vice President.

LBJ draft

Several Senators recently have predicted that Lyndon Johnson will change his mind about running again and will consent to be drafted when the Democratic convention convenes in Chicago.

They base this on the fact that there is wide dissension inside the Democratic party, with bitter criticism of Vice President Humphrey and with the party torn between the extreme liberalism of George McGovern and the Kennedy family and the extreme conservatism of Lester Maddox of Georgia. Unquestionably it is true that there will be demands on President Johnson to change his mind and run again. But don't look for him to do so.

He reached his decision not to run again after very careful consideration, lasting over a period of three years. His family has a record of poor health after 60, his father having died of a stroke at 60.

"I remember my aunt in a wheelchair," says the President. "It was one of my first recollections as a little boy. I don't want to end my life that way. It wouldn't be fair to the nation or me to risk another four years in the White House. I also remember what happened to Woodrow Wilson, and how he spent his last years an invalid. I don't want to end my career that way."

"When you've had a massive heart attack and been down in the valley of the shadow of death and come back and can't remember things," says the President, "it makes you think. I've had a remarkable recovery. But I don't want to push my luck too far."

President Johnson has worked harder in the White House than any other President this columnist has known, and he has been in Washington under seven Presidents. LBJ works from 7 A.M. until midnight and then reads reports in bed. He has shown amazing stamina. But he means what he says when he says he doesn't want to push his luck too far, and it is highly unlikely he will change his mind about running for another term.

Thurmond's veto

The most important backstage development at the Republican Convention was Nixon's close liaison with Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the notorious Dixiecrat.

This pretty well leaked out by the time the Miami convention was over. It was Sen. Strom Thurmond who took the Mississippi delegation for a yachting cruise and persuaded them not to back Reagan but stick with Nixon. Thurmond was Nixon's secret liaison with all the Southern delegations. And Thurmond himself indicated he had been given the green light to back Northern liberal vice presidential candidates in Nixon's campaign.

Thurmond, of course, was not known in that Nixon gave Sen. Thurmond the go-ahead to back Nixon's vice presidential pick, H. R. Haldeman, who was not known in that Nixon gave Sen. Thurmond the go-ahead to back Nixon's vice presidential pick, H. R. Haldeman.

A Conservative View

by James J. Kilpatrick

NEW YORK - Today's rumination actually have very little to do with New York. They result from a long walk on an idle afternoon the other day, when a visitor strolled from 57th Street down to the Village and back again, reflecting anew upon the architectural death-wish that festers deep in the soul of this restless city.

There is something in New York that hates the old. Let a building acquire a few wrinkles and a touch of grey; let it attain the least bit of dignity that goes with age—and down with it! One may walk block after block in New York, along side streets and great avenues, and look almost in vain for a structure built prior to 1900.

TRACKS IN FRONT - Earl (Buck) Ladner, is shown with Hancock County's newest crime-fighter, Track, an 11-month old bloodhound, raised at Parchman, is being trained and housed by Ladner. When he reaches full growth, his keen scent and expected 125 pounds of muscle should aid officers, who formerly had to borrow Harrison County canines in the event of manhunts.

This would mean that the most right-wing Dixiecrat in Congress would be able to virtually pick the new members of the Supreme Court.

Un and UFO's

While we are worrying about life on this planet, the United Nations has come up with very definite ideas that life exists on other planets and has proposed a serious global study of UFO's or flying saucers.

The United Nations has found that flying saucers have been sighted not only in the United States but in Russia, Canada, and Western Europe.

One confidential U.N. document states that the United States government "has been fully informed but has declined revelation of this data to the public at large for fear of various political repercussions."

Meanwhile, the American scientists say they feel sure the UFO's exist in other worlds and are urging Congress to finance a serious study of flying saucers.

From a Yankee Our readers will

To the Editor:

I guess that I could begin by saying Cincinnati is rather different from Bay St. Louis. For one thing nearly all of the streets here are paved and in fairly good condition (although in honesty I must mention that there are some worn places on the expressway that need repaving). Although the people here are friendly, I can never forget the warmth with which I was greeted in Bay St. Louis. Many were the times, while motoring at a sedate 20 mph on a dusty summer afternoon, a billowing cloud of dirt particles marking my passage, that even as a stranger I was accorded a warm welcome by those along the thoroughfare (I assume that waving one's fist in an agitated manner was a local form of greeting).

The weather is less humid than it was along the Gulf Coast, but considerably less consistent—periods of sunbathing measured in hours and minutes rather than in days. If the air has less moisture in it here it has gained other constituents (quantitatively at least) for the loss. A quick sniff of the air will reveal what a broad industrial base the area has. The range seems to be from slaughter houses and rendering plants through light manufacture of various types to chemical, petroleum, and extensive foundry activities. A brisk ride with the top down does not provide the constantly changing aromas of fresh cow manure, swamps, wood smoke and such of Mississippi, but rather is a brief Cook's Tour of some of the commercial aspects of the city.

The noise of the cars and trucks on the nearby expressway, while no louder than the hum of mosquitoes, cries of swamp owls, and seranades of frogs, is a little more difficult to accommodate to as an accompaniment for sleep. And while I must admit that I do miss being greeted by a pack of baying hounds, I also have to recognize that my dry cleaning expenses have decreased of late. Also, friends no longer ask if I am wearing a mohair suit.

Surprise! While there is a Bourgeois (many in fact) listed in the phone directory, there are casseals! I hope that I am tongue in my cheek of approaching casual column lines, to be called Boy Writings. I am such but I am round to it. That the warm hug that you are all in and that someone will get paved through.

WOOD ALLESTON IS PICTURED WITH LAMAR-LANE'S NEW SALESMAN AL DUNCAN. THEY STAND BY MR. ALLESTON'S NEW PICK-UP TRUCK.

(A first for both gentlemen)

Woods Alleston is justifiably proud of his new Chevrolet pick-up as it's his first new truck purchase. It also happens to have been the first new truck sale made by Lamar-Lane's new salesman, Al Duncan.

Woods recommended Al and Lamar-Lane saying: "I was extremely pleased with the way Mr. Duncan, with his many years of experience, helped me select my truck and the way all of the personnel at Lamar-Lane cooperated with me. Everyone from the sales staff to the service department appeared to go out of their way to be helpful."

Convert to Clean Electric Heating and Cooling

Now, before the winter season arrives, is the perfect time of the year to convert your home to modern, flameless electric heating and cooling.

Converting to an electric heating and cooling system is not expensive; it is a good investment now and in the future. Electric heating, for example, is the only new method of heating developed in the last 50 years.

A choice of units allows freedom in house design and selection of the correct system for your individual requirements. Also, there is a minimum of inconvenience during installation.

An electric year 'round comfort conditioning system offers many advantages; cleanliness, convenience, comfort, safety, ease of maintenance, and even temperature throughout the home.

For additional information on converting your home to electric heating and cooling, contact one of our Residential Sales Representatives.

FRENCH PLANTER Emile de Becque presents his two children to Navy nurse Nellie Forbush in a scene from South Pacific. Parts are played by Conrad Maufrey, Michael and Anne Marie Rosato, and Lana Taylor in this scene shot during rehearsal.

South Pacific scheduled at Little Theatre

Mrs. J.K. McKenna, director of the largest group the Little Theatre has yet used for one production, names the following as members of the cast of South Pacific:

Lana Taylor and Conrad Maufrey as Nellie Forbush and Emile de Becque, the roles famous by Mary Martin and Ezio Pinza. Inez Favre is playing Mary, Frater Paul, Lt. Cable, Sharon McKenna, Liat, and Bill Anderson, as Luther Billis, Robert and Victor Frankline, Sr., Capt. Brackett and Commander Harbison; Phil Jams, Phil Scaife, George Mags, Al Carlson, Donald Maufrey, Ed Martin, Jay Rosato, Frater Walter Bracken, Bob Hubbard, Lex Maufrey, John Hill, Dave Mueller, and James Mueller as crewmen and seabees.

Michael and Anne Marie Rosato appear as the two Polynesian children; Victor Frankiewicz, Jr. as Henry; Brenda Artigue, Ursula Favre, Martina Griffin, Mary Ellen Murphy, Kathi Kirkland, Carol Anderson; Susan Anderson, a native child; and Amy Hartnett, Louann Meyers, Arlene Osborn, Kathleen Stiefel, Maria Loup, Nel Ducomb, Patricia Robinson, and Jacqueline Wilson, the French girls.

With so large a cast the make-up room normally used son, Julie Stack, Mary Barbo, and Marlene Springer, the Navy will be inadequate, and plans are being made to set up tents in the side yard of the theater for this purpose.

The board of Directors of the Little Theatre announces that, contrary to its expectations and due to unforeseen technical problems, the long-awaited air-conditioning at the theater will not be installed at this time.

Due to the unusual size of the cast a capacity audience is expected all four nights. Advance tickets may be purchased at de Montluzin's Drug Store.

Hawaiian luau fetes Miss Smith, fiance

Bride-elect Stephanie Smith and her fiance, Mr. Cary Dudenhefer were honored by Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Salvant Sunday afternoon at a Hawaiian Luau luncheon.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Gray Smith of New Orleans, is the granddaughter of Mr. E.J. Brennan and the late Mrs. E.J. Brennan, nee Mata Schoen of New Orleans and Waveland, Miss.

The Salvants' garden was beautifully decorated for the occasion with red hanging fish nets filled with octopus, star fish, sailfish, crabs, shrimp and lobsters. Monkeys swung from the trees and colorful birds and parrots perched on tree limbs. In the center of the garden was a Tiki figure and tiki torch lamp, where a Hawaiian ritual was held. A large wicker tray with rum filled pineapple halves was ignited and the Hawaiian Wedding song played for the young couple.

Ladner-Holder marriage vows

The marriage was solemnized July 28, in Livingston, Ala.

Bay group entertains vets

In keeping with its function as a community service, the Bay St. Louis Little Theater presented an evening of entertainment at the fellowship center in Mississippi City on Tuesday of last week.

Terry Malone and Sharon McKenna presented two scenes from The Diary of Anne Frank. Scenes from "South Pacific", the forthcoming theater play, followed with Inez Favre, Sharon McKenna, and Frater Paul Kutylo participating. The program ended with the hilarious final scene of Barefoot in the Park, with Karen Smith, Col Smith, Joe Barbo, and Olive McKenna playing the roles.

Entertainment groups of various kinds are invited to appear at the fellowship center from time to time, and the local Little Theater was pleased to contribute to this community project.

DONALD H. LANDRY, PRESIDENT

It seems as if it were only yesterday that we were rejoicing over the arrival of June, welcoming visitors and vacationers, and looking forward to the long hot summer. Now, after scanning ads, we realize that only eight days remain before local students will be registering for the fall school term. And county pupils are now in classrooms, having signed in last Friday.

Santa comes too early

Years and years ago when Christmases appeared more like 365 years than days apart; we were assured by those older and wiser, that time would take care of that little problem. As each year passes, each day seem to pick-up speed accordingly; now the Yuletide season is about six months nearer Easter than it used to be.

One advantage of the pre-autumn period is the large number of end-of-season parties, softball and baseball award dinners; golf tournaments, sailing races, etc.

Heard the Legion home was really swinging Friday night when the Martinis were played for their big after-the-fair dance. Of course, the dance really has no connection with the fair, as its proceeds are used to purchase gifts for children of the community to be presented at the Christmas fête—but we just needed some kind of name for that particular social occasion!

New nurses are capped

Also on Friday night 12 brand new certified practical nurses received caps, pins and lamps, in ceremonies at St. Rosenthal gymnasium. The new CPN's, all looking lovely in crisp new uniforms are members of the first practical nursing course offered here by Pearl River Junior College affiliated with Hancock General Hospital. None other than Garvin Johnson, former PRJC president, now state superintendent of education, delivered the address after Rev. Charles Johnson opened with the invocation and Thurman Alley, director vocational-technical education welcomed guests and made introductions. Dot and Bill Blackledge, Russell Elliott, John Rutherford, Herbert Knight, along with priests and brothers from St. Augustine's, formed sort of an informal greeting committee. Just before official proceedings got underway 'the girls' presented Shirley Hunter, their instructor, a beautiful white orchid corsage. M.R. White, PRJC president handed out certificates; Rev. Johnson ended with a benediction and Janell McClain played for both the processional and recessional.

Just a few spectators were Rebecca Seal and son Leo; Mrs. Herbert Knight and family, Betty Romanoff, the Pat Garcias, and all the other proud parents and many friends.

Chateau Seu players revel

Members of the Chateau sponsored softball team, which made an almost miraculous comeback after holding down fourth place in league play most of the season, were wined and dined by 'Pop' Seuzeaneau, son Jack and wife Doris Friday night. The wine was really beer and delicious boiled shrimp completed the menu. There was such a crowd by the time we arrived that we're a little vague as to just exactly who were team members and who were just customers invited to join the fun. Anyway some present included Margaret and Henry Prevost, Bobby Strong, and varied members of his family; Jackie and Ray Kidd, Sue and Jimmy Mayfield, Terry and James Strong, Jimmy Ladner, 'Son' Rudolph, Louie Demoran, Buck and 'Wine', who just happened to be out 'on the town' at the time; Rita and Paul Cox, etc., etc.

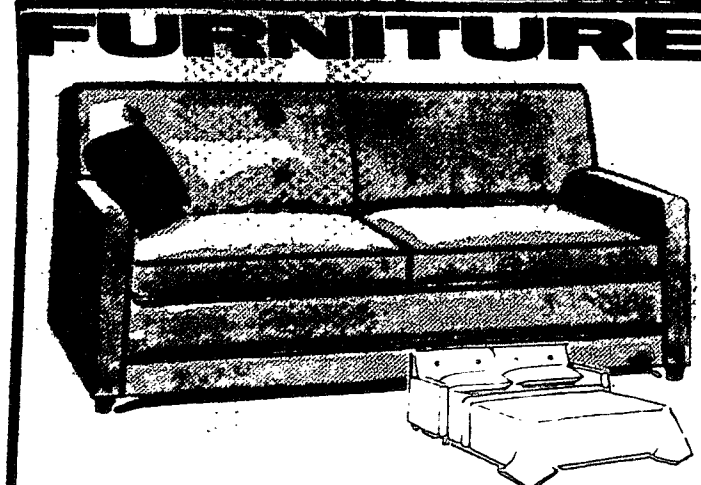

Olive McKenna has been plagued with a knee ailment at a most unfortunate time. She's in the process of directing the upcoming Little Theater musical South Pacific which boasts the largest cast of any ever presented by the local group.

Mrs. John Hetrick's sister, who came here from Washington, D.C., after learning of Rev. Hetrick's sudden passing, reports that Mrs. Hetrick is doing so well she may be allowed to come home soon. She was rushed into New Orleans for emergency surgery for a very dangerous blood clot on Aug. 12. The operation was performed at Ochsner Foundation and she hopes to be able to leave for Knoxville, Tenn. on or around the end of the month.

Repeat of a tribute

We wish to express our sincere grief over the loss of a very good friend and to express deepest sympathy to the family and many, many friends of Mr. J.N. Benvenuti, who passed away in Gulfport Memorial Hospital last Tuesday. He was a fine man in every way and we are happy to have the memory of a recent fishing trip with him on his sons' boat where he appeared to be having a wonderful time, despite the fact that he was then in almost constant pain. When his father died over 30 years ago, the end of his obituary was worded so perfectly to describe our friend, that we quote: 'The passing away of Mr. Benvenuti removes from our community one of the

REV. AND MRS. O.H. BUCKLEY AND LAMAR-LANE SALESMAN FRITZ PERANICH ARE PICTURED WITH THE BUCKLEYS' NEW STATION WAGON.

I have been seeing all the pictures of people buying cars and trucks from Lamar-Lane Chevrolet in the newspaper. So, I figured there must be a reason for that. And when I was ready for a good used wagon I went to Lamar-Lane and Fritz Peranich showed me a wagon I liked and also gave me a good deal.

Harry Chapman leader in Robin sailing

Not a breath of air was stirring on the Bay of St. Louis last weekend, but they managed to complete six races between Bay-Waveland and Pass Christian Yacht Clubs in the annual Round Robin competition, even though at times anchors were necessary to prevent the boats from drifting with the tides.

At this point Harry Chapman of Bay-Waveland is leading both clubs with 56 1/2 points although Pass Christian is leading at the end of six races, which also determines Lipton teams from each club, the Pass posting 248 3/4 points against 217 3/4 for the Bay.

Individual standings are: BWYC, Harry Chapman 56 1/4, Judy Reeves, 49 1/4, Jack Gordon 47 1/4, Ray Stieffel 26, Basil Kennedy 20, Norman Lamb 19, PCYC, Mike Pickich 52 1/2, Sid Ellis 50, John Morrow 44 1/4, Warren Adams 41, T.A. Schmidt 36 and Phyllis Schmidt 25.

Winners of last weekend's six races were Judy Reeves, BWYC; John Morrow, PCYC; Mike Pickich, PCYC; Jack Gordon, BWYC and Chapman, BWYC.

Competition will continue this weekend at Pass Christian with six races scheduled.

Federal, state agencies differ on duck statistics

U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall said Saturday severe restrictions are necessary on killing of mallards and other ducks in the Mississippi Flyway, one of four north-south corridors used by migrating birds. Mississippi and Louisiana are in the Flyway.

Udall claimed the restrictions are necessary to protect future breeding stocks of popular duck species which will be flying southward "in the smallest number in recent years".

But the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission has a different version. The commission sent its own team to Canada and reported its survey showed federal figures are wrong; that the birds are actually increasing in number.

Anyhow, new federal regulations have been set up and include two experimental projects in the Central Flyway making it virtually mandatory for a hunter to recognize what he is aiming at before he pulls the trigger. This is a point limit plan penalizing sportsmen from shooting a hen mallard, and a late, short season for mallard drakes only, provided the area's regular duck season is shortened one week.

The new federal regulations also limit states' seasons and bag limits including states in the Mississippi Flyway where, the federal report said, 40 per cent of the four million mallards killed last year were downed.

PCI women tops in sweepstakes

Pass Christian Isles Golf Club women golfers proved their sweeping superiority last weekend by copping first place in both Saturday's and Sunday's Sweepstakes.

Saturday's event was won by Mrs. Richard Andersen of Pass Christian with a 72. Second was Mrs. Gordon Murdoch of Waveland, 75, and third, Irwin Bothe, Pass, 77.

Sunday Mrs. R.B. Merritt of Pass Christian led with 68 followed by Ward Guillot, Pass, Christian, 73 and Mrs. Frank Cefalu, Pass Christian, 78.

Rip shoes horses death Bay pecans

By: KAY MARBLE

Far from the cry -- the Village Smithy, Bay St. Louis, Miss., claims as a resident of one of the outstanding horse-shoers in the South.

Today's requirements for shoeing horses, with the advent of the horse as one of the nation's number one exports for leisure, has been raised from the picturesque heavily muscled blacksmith of yesterday who knew only how to nail a piece of iron on a horse's hoof.

Cerald S. Kennedy, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy of Waveland, and more personally known as "Rip" holds a B.S. degree in Animal Husbandry from Mississippi State College. The application of knowledge from books and actual experience has a wide gap, so Rip set out to seek the real know-how. These adventures began in the summers during college and he turned to the west which afforded opportunities that weren't available at home. At the Chief Mountain Dude Ranch, Babbs, Montana, located at the edge of Glacier Mountain National Park, Rip was a horse and dude wrangler. The mountainous terrain and constant use by dudes makes one realize how important it is to have a properly shod horse. The next two summers were spent in Great Bend, Kansas at the Big "T" Appaloosa Ranch and with Pete Nicholas an outstanding Garden City, Kansas trainer.

Rip's doctrine of shoeing horses is "no foot - no horse" and believes a horseshoer must have a working knowledge of the anatomy and physiology of the horse's foot. He is familiar with a wide range of horse-shoer's tools to the extent of having made a shoe from an old car spring. He also feels it is advantageous to have a general knowledge of the location, shape and direction of the bones of the legs, so that by skillful work and knowledge of shoeing he can return true gaits, improve or correct faulty gaits, alleviate or eradicate many of the disorders of the hoof and furnish relief to injured parts.

In the care of horses' feet, the power of the hoof to resist wear and injury depends upon the elasticity of the horn structure, proper functioning of the sensitive and non-sensitive structures, and distribution of the weight of the animal in accordance with the ability of the various parts of the foot to carry the load. When the horse is removed from his natural environment and is used for work on various terrains carrying or pulling loads, then supplementary protection is needed. That shoeing is a necessary task cannot be denied. The shoe raises the frog from the ground thus preventing wear and soreness of the hoof. The frog is a triangular elastic horny pad in the middle of the sole of a horse's foot which pumps blood to the heart. No pain is inflicted to the animal in the shoeing process and is similar to the clipping of one's fingernails.

Rip is equally proficient in shoeing English and western performance horses. Different breeds of horses demand their own types of shoes. The western reining horse is shod slick in back for a smooth sliding stop. The Tennessee Walking Horse and Saddlebreds have heavily weighted toes for animation in their gaits. Some of the outstanding horses shod by Rip are: Teacher's Pet - Kansas State Champion Halter Mare, Herma's Joker - second in the nation in reining contests, Jim's So So - Thagart Farms Champion Halter Horse, Jim Mayfield's War Eagle M.
